16. Location and Access
This site can be reached by traveling south-southeast along Lower River from the intersection of State Route 32 and Lower River Road, which is approximately 0.65 mi west of the intersection in the center of Francis, Utah, for approximately 2.4 mi. Turn right (south) onto a paved road and drive for approximately 0.4 mi until you reach a bridge. Cross over the bridge and turn right onto a gravel road. Drive west for approximately 0.75 mi and you will be at the site. This rural site has no formal listed local address on the tax records or on the property itself. No datum was left at the site. The site is on private land and permission must be obtained from the landowner prior to entering the property.

20. Description

This site is an historic ranch, known as the Fitzgerald Ranch complex, located in a valley along the floodplain of the Provo River. Historic elements of this site consist of two houses (Structures 8 and 10), two barns (Structures 3 and 4), a covered pen (Structure 1), a hay crib and horse enclosure (Structure 2), a garage (Structure 5), two sheds (Structures 6 and 7), and a concrete pad (Structure 9). Athel Benjamin Fitzgerald and his wife Avis Luella Bonner Fitzgerald were the original owners of the property. No detailed records regarding the use and construction of the various structures were located. The oldest structure on the site is believed to be one of the houses (Structure 10); it may date from the 1920s or 1930s. This house has been extensively remodeled and is currently occupied. Additional structures were added in the 1940s and 1950s. There are also several obviously modern structures on the site including a pole barn, two garages, and a series of animal enclosures; these were not recorded. All of the structures, with the exception of Structures 1 and 9, are in-use. Structure 8, a small house, is currently being used intermittently as a fishing cabin. No historic artifacts were noted on the site either in dumps or scattered about the property. Given the long history of occupation at this location, there are almost certainly buried artifacts, although it is possible that most trash was hauled off the ranch and dumped elsewhere. Structures 1-9 were previously recorded by Birnie (2002) during an architectural documentation project.

With one exception, all of the structures documented at the site are in the same condition as when they were initially documented by Birnie (2002) in 2001. The exception is Structure 1, a covered pen, which has collapsed since it was initially recorded. Structure 1 is now in poor condition. Structure 5 is leaning to the east and in fair to poor condition. Structure 8 has suffered due to lack of upkeep and is in fair condition. The remaining structures are in good to excellent condition.

*23. National Register Status Eligible

Justify

This site has been previously considered eligible for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP). The houses, barns, and garage were recommended as contributing elements. The associated pens and outbuildings (sheds) were recommended as non-contributing elements (Birnie 2002). The site retains integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association. The site represents a ranch associated with the development of ranching in the Woodland-Francis area (Ranching Consolidation and Specialization Period, 1910-1953), an important event in the rise of these communities. As such, the site is recommended as being eligible for inclusion in the NRHP under Criterion a of 36CFR60.4. The thematic association is agriculture. The site was constructed and used by Athel Fitzgerald and Avis Luella Bonner Fitzgerald. The extended family of Fitzgeralds were sheep ranchers who lived in Heber City, but a number of family members lived in the Woodland-Francis community. Athel Fitzgerald was the vice-president of the Utah Wool Marketing Association and prominent in the Utah woolgrowers activities for many years. He was also a director of the Uintah Sheep Grazer's Association. Although Athel Fitzgerald was well known in the area and even prominent in ranch-related activities, he did not have a major influence on local or regional history. The site is not a work or art of the work of a master. Due to the eclectic mix of properties built over the span of almost eight decades, the site does not embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction. While the site may be able to offer information regarding historic lifeways, much of this information is available at other sites and in archival records. As such, the site is unlikely to contribute critical or unique information to help address important research questions regarding local and regional history. Consequently, this site is recommended as being not eligible for inclusion in the NRHP under Criterion b, c, or d of 36CFR60.4.
